

What Young People Want!

Are you an adolescent?

Make your voice heard! The Global Forum for Adolescents in October 2023 will be the largest global platform on adolescent and youth well-being. It will bring together the perspectives of adolescents and youth – their priorities, concerns, and ambitions, for their well-being. Join the What Young People Want initiative and tell us what YOU want for your FUTURE.

What else will this chatbot do?

Advocacy:

In the lead-up to the Forum – as well as during and after – organizations will be able to use the results of the What Young People Want chatbot to engage and organize their networks to advocate for increased political and financial commitments from policy and decision-makers.

Accountability:

Young people will be encouraged to report on how they experience the results of financial and political commitments made by governments for their well-being.
